Legendary Origin - The Legendary Mare

Apart from advanced areas, Ofir includes primitive tribes which still recount bygone eras in tales. One such myth tells of a time when sky and steppe fell in love and gave birth to the first mare. This mare, seeing how weak humans are falling prey to dangers, began to nurse them. They fed on her milk until growing strong enough to saddle her, becoming warriors. This is why Ofiri value horses highly and call them "noblest among all beasts".

Legendary Origin - Children of the Djinn

Another legendary origin story, mostly told among the Ramaadi, revolves around the idea that the Ophari were shaped from earth, filled with water, baked by the sun and then brought to life by the breath of creation. As such, the Ramaadi saw themselves as the fleshly embodiment of elemental spirits. This idea is referenced in several stories that are still told to children to this day, among them the Story of the False Prince, who forces a powerful sorceress to summon a djinn for each element and demand to know if the Ophari are truly their blessed children.

Names

Ofir names mirror those seen in real life Persia, Arabia or the past realms of Persia.

Ofiri do not introduce themselves fully to anyone who is not an Ofiri as well or above their station (like a king or noble). Their names are much more complex than those of Nordlings, consisting of a given name, mention of a parent (father or mother, sometimes even grandparents), their tribe or family and a title.

- Example: Habib Aibn Salazar kh'Fanila ogn Assam Alsamad
- Meaning: Habib Son of Salazar of the Fanila tribe of (the city of) Assam the eternal.

During character creation only a first name is relevant, a full name should be considered once in the game world however.

Examples:

- Male - Amad, Hamal, Erhan, Maraal, Sirvat, Dulla, Kareem
- Female - Nibras, Radeyah, Zaira, Dayo, Amira
- Important Words: aibn (son of), aibnat (daughter), ogh (of the city), kh' (of tribe/family), al (the, in combination with another word), alnader (the strange one), alrashi (the just), alrazzaq (the provider), alazeem (the magnificent), almateen (the firm), alnur (the lightbringer), alsamad (the eternal)
